In the nest

Remember when you had to go through an entire month of listings and manually place bold caps at the beginning of every item?

No more.

One of the great time-and-effort saving features of InDesign is "nested styles."

With this capability, you can set up your entire listing so that the lead-ins become part of the overall style sheet. All you need to have is an element that triggers the style. In the example above, the trigger is a colon.

Many editors have been using InDesign for years—and still don't know about the wonders of nested styles.

Now you do.

'101 HENNINGER HELPFUL HINTS

is filled with so many good ideas. You'll find yourself asking: "Why didn't I think of that?"
